

Mother of 12

DISRUPTS

Construction Education

“ Does today’s college degree get you a good job, marketable skills, and enough salary to pay off the mountain of school debt? Today’s answer might be no. ”

Dr. Jodi Vermaas

Founder | Disruptor | Mother of 12

Meet the woman disrupting the $1.3 Trillion construction sector while raising 12 children! Dr. Jodi Vermaas, disruptor, author, and education pioneer believes it’s time we rethink higher education and prepare the next generation of construction leaders.

Who is Dr. Jodi Vermaas?

Dr. Jodi Vermaas is the Chief Leadership Officer of BASE4 where she provides executive coaching and talent management for her international team using the servant leadership model. Jodi is a quantitative researcher, published author, and double Ph.D. in the field of counseling and counselor education. She is raising 12 children (10 adopted from around the world) to think outside the box when it comes to success.

The Vermaas family

With them in mind, she founded STONEPILE^{llc} - The Online Construction College to marry two fields that are ripe for disruption: construction and higher education.

Why STONEPILE^{llc}?

Jodi believes in the servant leadership model, which has taken her around the world in pursuit of training the next generation of construction leaders. Having lived and worked all over the world, she discovered two incredible heartaches:

- Millions of dollars being wasted on outdated construction methods
- Millions of orphans needing homes

She chose to do something about both!

Over the past 10 years, Jodi has helped both her family and her firm grow exponentially while tackling these two problems. This incredible woman is disrupting the Construction Industry through innovation and education. She is also the mother of 12 children. Yes, I said 12—10 adopted out of devastating poverty and trafficking situations. Raising 12 kids has taught her to think differently about education, which is exactly what the construction industry needs right now.

Construction Education for the Next Generation of Leaders.

Jodi founded STONEPILE^{llc} to meet the needs of today's students, and she is getting it done. It's no shock that higher education needs some new ideas. Students still want to master the disciplines of higher education- critical analysis, higher-level thinking skills, and scientific research, but they also want to gain pro-job skills and avoid cumbersome school debt. STONEPILE^{llc} seems to do both. With her Zero School Debt commitment and dedication to connecting every student into lucrative jobs, Jodi is building a whole new philosophy of higher education.

“ Most parents advising their high school seniors don't realize is that construction project managers make 90K+ salaries while having abundant opportunities to rebuild and reimagine our communities. ”

ONLINE | AFFORDABLE | SUCCESS-ORIENTED

As mom to five girls, Jodi preaches about women leading in the construction industry.

To find out about more about STONEPILE^{llc} - The Online Construction College visit their website at www.stonepile.us